Description:

Sophia the Bionic Cat is the true story of an amputee kitten and a wounded Veteran and how they found that technology and love would help them both overcome unbeatable odds. An inspirational story for all ages. Endorsed by the American Dyslexia Association! This book has received two notable awards; One for being written in Open-Dyslexic font. If the reader has Dyslexia, they will easily read this book, if the reader isn't afflicted with dyslexia, they won't notice the font difference! The second is the Maker of Merit award presented by the Maker Faire, for being the most Innovative and Inspiring printed material at the 2017 Maker Faire San Diego.

I ordered this book a few days ago (yay Prime) and could not wait to get it and give to my son for Christmas! Karolyn is his hero and his 4 year old heart just loves her and Sophia's story. The anticipation may have gotten the better of me and I may or may not have opened and read it as soon as I got home. This little book is a wonderful example of perseverance, friendship, love, and embracing our differences with the world around us. What's so spectacular about this little treasure is all of these grown-up lessons are written in a way that a child will understand. The fact that you can definitely feel the author's heart and soul being poured into each page of this book is reason enough to order tons of copies for all of the kids in your family (The Holidays are around the corner you know)! The bonus is our children can learn a bit about humanity and that being different is OKAY!
